

openreach

Kasam Hussain

Kasam Hussain is Openreach's partnership director for the Midlands, leading the company's commercial and funded programmes to deliver fast, reliable Ultrafast full fibre broadband.

He works with partners large and small, including BDUK programmes alongside DCMS and local authorities across the Midlands, building on the high levels of superfast coverage achieved over the past decade.

Kasam is also working with hundreds of Midlands communities to deliver local, co-funded superfast and ultrafast broadband networks, and is at the forefront of Openreach's work with local authorities to support their full fibre network ambitions.

Previously, he was BT Group's programme manager for several local authority fibre broadband rollouts, responsible for contractual delivery and commercial management of multi-million-pound contracts. Kasam's 20-year career in the IT and communications sector provides extensive experience in programme and project management.

Kasam is a member of the Openreach Midlands board, utilising his experience to lead and manage business development and stakeholder engagement strategy.